Staff Out of the Office

Amanda will be out of the office April 13-15 for the YSS Conference

Happy Birthday Reid Moore!

Yes, our Unofficial Library System Mascot HamStar is 2 years old today! He’s a bit grumpy about his hat, but he does love his bananas and grapes!

Happy Birthday!
Reminders:

Advocacy Everyday
Thursday, April 21, 2016
9:30am-11:30am
A conversation on how every library, every librarian, and every patron has a role to play in speaking up for libraries. The presentation will include a discussion of NYLA’s Legislative Agenda, the state budget process, the current political landscape, and strategizing for the future.

Speaker:
Jeremy Johannesen
NYLA Executive Director
Having served a Deputy Director of NYLA from 2005 – ’08, Johannesen left to lead the NYS Alliance for Arts Education. Jeremy returned to NYLA in 2012, assuming the role of Executive Director. Johannesen holds his BS in Arts Education from the College of Saint Rose, and is an active leader in Cub Scout Pack 232.

Strategies for Successful Partnerships
Tuesday, May 10, 2016
1:30pm-4:00pm
In this third component of the Ready to Read at New York Libraries Program, participants will learn:
- Strengthen partnerships that enable public libraries to assist young families and child care providers in fostering early literacy skills for all children in New York State.
  • Connect local libraries with statewide networks of childcare providers, non-profit organizations, public broadcasters and others to enhance early childhood services, including parent education.
  • Provide library staff with ongoing access to research-based early literacy skills training.
  • Partner with national, state, regional, and local organizations to increase family and caregiver participation in library based early literacy programs that foster a literacy-rich home environment.
Check out the Internet: Starting a Hotspot Lending Program
Thursday, June 16, 2016
9:30am-11:30am
- Does your library have a parking lot full of patrons using wifi after hours?
- Are you interested in having a hotspot lending program in your library?
- Wondering how it all works and (gulp) how much it might cost?
Join Central New York Library Resources Council (CLRC)’s Research & Development Librarian Matthew Kopel for a session reviewing all of the various ways that your library can get to the bleeding edge of access innovation. This workshop will walk you through the questions to ask vendors, and prepare you to have the answers ready for when your board is ready to fund a hotspot project.

MSRT- STEAMing Up Summer Learning
TUESDAY, April 26
2:00 PM – 3:00 PM
Speakers: Susan Considine, Leah Kraus, Margaret Portier, and Stephanie Prato, Fayetteville Free Library
This webinar will focus on ideas and inspiration for integrating STEAM and making into your 2016 Summer Learning programs. Ideas will include programs that have a science, math, engineering, arts and technology focus, including many that also integrate the Health and Wellness theme. We know that libraries hold a unique position in the learning ecosystems in our communities as informal learning platforms; this is our moment to position ourselves to play a critical role in providing year-round, all-age, interest-driven access to 21st century skills-focused, STEAM-focused, participatory learning opportunities with substantial learning outcomes that are so vitally important to our communities and our nation.
Register Now!
This program is free and open to the first 90 registrants.
Please note that no CE credits will be issued for participation in this webinar

Simply Strategic Webinar
Wednesday, May 4
2:00 PM – 3:00 PM
Ron Kirsop, from the Pioneer Library system, will talk about a simple strategic planning process that any library can implement to build a meaningful strategic plan. The key elements of the process include aspiration-oriented focus groups, a simple community survey, and discussions with internal members of the library. This presentation will explain the evolution of the model, the elements applied during the planning stages, the responsibilities of all parties involved, and how this model promotes future planning.
Learning Objectives:
  1. Steps involved with a simplified strategic planning process,
  2. How to use data to set priorities for your library,
  3. Questions to ask your community through surveys, focus groups, and interviews

The Empire Archival Discovery Cooperative: Information and Demonstration Session

When: Tuesday, May 11 at 10am
Where: LIVE and Online – FREE
Register: https://www.esln.org/events/ead-demo_5-16/

Join Training Coordinator, Jen Palmentier (SENYLRC) and Project Manager, Deirdre Joyce (CLRC) as they discuss and demonstrate the beta prototype for the forthcoming Empire Archival Discovery Cooperative (or Empire ADC) a project of the Empire State Library Network (ESLN).

Since 2013, ESLN has collaborated with archival professionals from around the state of New York to build a platform that can serve as an index and repository for finding aids created by holding institutions from around the state. In particular, it has sought to test the viability of the EADitor as both a platform for the index as well as a tool which contributors could use to create well-formed, DACS-compliant, encoded finding aids without prior EAD experience. Empire ADC is the result of these efforts.

The information session will cover the history and background of the project, discuss the workflows for potential contributors, review how interested parties will soon be able to contribute and create their own encoded finding aids, and – finally – demonstrate the EADitor tool.

Online Book Discussion: The Book Nobody Read by Owen Gingerich

Tuesday, May 24
Noon-1:00pm

Prodded by Arthur Koestler's claim that when it was first published nobody read Copernicus's De revolutionibus, in which Copernicus first suggested that the sun, not the earth, was the center of the universe, renowned astro-historian Owen Gingerich embarked on a three-decade-long quest to see in person all six hundred extant copies of the first and second editions of De revolutionibus, including those owned and annotated by Galileo and Kepler. Tracing the ownership of individual copies through the hands of saints, heretics, scalawags, and bibliomaniacs, Gingerich proves conclusively four and a half centuries after its publication, that De revolutionibus was as inspirational as it was revolutionary."

Summer Food Service Program
The Summer Food Service Program (SFSP), administered by the US Department of Agriculture and the NYS Education Department, uses federal funds for qualified organizations, including libraries, to serve free, nutritious meals and snacks to kids and teens in low income communities during the summer months. The program depends on community organizations like libraries to serve the meals in a safe and convenient environment where learning activities can also be promoted.

How can you learn more about this program?

- Get information and ideas by viewing the USDA’s Summer Food Service Program webinar on Wednesday, April 13 from 2 – 3pm (EDT) Register at: https://cc.readytalk.com/cc/s/registrations/new?cid=n2ltg4m34c1p
- Go to www.SummerMealsNY.org for follow up and additional information.
- Go to the Summer Reading at New York Libraries site to download a promotional flyer on “Summer Reading and Summer Eating” at http://www.nysl.nysed.gov/libdev/summer/eating.pdf

Hunger Solutions New York (http://hungersolutionsny.org/), a partner with Summer Reading at New York Libraries, notes that over the past two summers, libraries serving meals across New York State have increased from 36 in 11 counties to 81 in 19 counties. Read about Summer Reading at New York Libraries partnerships and find out how your library can be a part of this essential child nutrition program at http://www.summerreadingnys.org/librarians-educators/le-resources/#hunger

Storytime Rhyme of the Week

Alphabet Monster

I’m the Alphabet Monster
And nothing tastes better
To the Alphabet Monster
Than eating every letter.
A “j” and an “a”
And a “c” and a “k”
And the million more letters
I munch every day.
I’m hungry now.
What shall I do?
I think I’ll eat
a “y,” an “o,” and a “u”
........ that means YOU!

Don’t forget to visit: http://daybydayny.org/ for your daily storytime rhyme and activity!
YA Book of the Week:

Dating Down by Stefanie Lyons

From School Library Journal
Gr 9 Up—Contemporary fiction set in a small town near Chicago, IL. Written in prose, and reminiscent of Ellen Hopkins's popular book Crank (S. & S., 2013), this story chronicles Samantha's relationship with a boy she refers to only as "X." As Samantha and X's relationship progresses, the angst escalates in her relationships with friends and family. When her friends warn her that she is dating someone whose morals and values do not match her own, Samantha chooses to ignore these words of wisdom because of her initial infatuation with X. Ironically, what each of her best friends fails to see is that they, too, are "dating down." This theme is rampant throughout the book and will speak to a wide variety of teens who have either dated a similar type of person or know someone who has. The pacing is a bit choppy at first, but as the story advances, the book becomes more fluid. The characters are well developed and rather typical of many love-struck teens today. The mood reflects the actions of the main character, Samantha. It's light and playful when she first develops feelings for a new boy, then it gradually evolves into something a bit darker when she finds out he is into drugs, and it becomes darker still when she decides to join him by taking drugs herself. Samantha finally evaluates her life and decisions and struggles to turn her life around. VERDICT The prose format and dramatic plotline make this ideal for reluctant teen readers.—Jeni Tahaney, Duncanville High School Library, TX

Question of the Week

LAST WEEK’S QUESTION OF THE WEEK:

What is the origin of April Fool’s Day?

The first day of April, known as both April Fools’ Day and All Fools’ Day, is recognized in many countries as a time for practical jokes. Modern April Fools jokes range from having the dupe call the zoo to ask for a Mr. Fox, to newspaper articles about soundproof paint or offering a reward to the person who saves the most daylight during Daylight Saving Time. In France, where the day is called poisson d’avril ("April fish," a reference to spawning fish that are easily caught), schoolchildren try to surreptitiously attach cutouts of fish to each other's backs, making that person the April fool. In Scotland the April fool is known as the "April gowk" (cuckoo). "Hunting the April gowk" extends over a 48-hour period, the last 24 of which—"Taily Day"—are marked by practical jokes involving buttocks, such as pinning a tail on someone or tacking on a sign saying "Kick Me." In Portugal, where the practice is to toss flour at one another, April Fools’ Day is celebrated on the Sunday and Monday before Lent.

Although the origins of a day on which to play practical jokes are obscure and are thought to have been part of the rituals of spring, it is believed that the concept of the modern April Fools’ Day began in France, where, before the advent of the Gregorian calendar in 1582, the new year started on the first day of April. People celebrated the event as they mark New Year's today, with parties and dancing, some exchanging gifts. With the new calendar introduced by Pope Gregory XIII, the year began on the first of January. Due to primitive communications, it took time before everyone heard about the change, and some people refused to accept the new calendar and continued celebrating the new year during the week ending April 1. They became the butt of jokes: people played tricks on them, gave them nonsensical gifts, and sent them on foolish errands. The poissons d'avril were most likely the first April fools.
