This week, one of the most popular articles on the online version of the New York Times was an article from November 22, 2016 entitled “Here’s Why You Should Call, Not Email, Your Legislators.” The article explains that activists in all political areas recommend calling your legislators, not just emailing and posting on social media. Why? A large volume of calls on an issue can bring an office to a halt, which could result in the legislator making a statement on their position. The volume of calls makes the issue impossible to ignore and slows work for the office. Phone calls to legislative offices also have a higher chance of a call back from them. Since most legislators receive hundreds of emails a day, responding personally to an email is virtually impossible.

We know the thought of calling someone in Albany might be daunting. Last week we shared a sample script you can use if you feel uncomfortable talking on the phone, and you can find it on our website at http://www.flls.org/speak-up-now-for-library-aid/. You can also modify the sample script in any way you like, or speak about why funding libraries is so important to you and your family.

This year, we need your help more than ever. Next week you will be receiving flyers about the bus trip for Advocacy Day, as well as postcards to hand out to your patrons for advocacy efforts. Governor Cuomo wants to take libraries back to 2015 funding levels. Scroll down to see our chart outlining the large impacts this cut will have in so many areas. Please help us speak up now for library aid.

You may also have noticed we have shared the following graphic on our social media accounts. If you haven't done so already, please share it with your followers.

ITHACA—Tompkins County Public Library Director Susan Currie has announced the tentative renovation schedule for phase one of the Library’s comprehensive facility upgrade.

Noting the importance of community access to the essential services provided by the Library, Currie said TCPL will be closed for ten days, from February 10 through February 19, to allow construction crews to expedite the completion of carpet replacement and public restroom renovations.

“Our library provides vital access to resources, services and programs for community members, which is why these upgrades are so important,” Currie said. “While we had hoped to remain open during the construction process, we recognize that our patrons will be best served by the efficient completion of these renovations.”

While the building will be closed, access to many Library services and programs will be available remotely, including digital downloads of eBooks through the OverDrive Digital Download Service, Hoopla’s streaming video platform, TumbleBooks which offers animated, talking picture books, read-along chapter books and more for young readers, and Zinio, the world’s largest newsstand.

Plans are also in place for an off-site family storytime, a digital download training program and multiple sessions of the popular social media book chat, “Break for Books.” No library materials will be due during the closure and DVD borrowing limits will be doubled.

“We have taken every possible step to ensure that the renovation process runs seamlessly with limited service interruption for our patrons,” Currie said.

The first phase of the Library’s two-part renovation plan includes removing and replacing carpet throughout the building and upgrading and remodeling the public restrooms.

The project is being overseen by Tompkins County Facilities, with design services by QPK Design. Bouley Construction will serve as the project’s principal contractor.

Made possible through public support of the Tompkins County Public Library Foundation’s 21st Century Library Campaign, a New York State Dormitory Authority Grant sponsored by Assemblywoman Barbara Lifton, a New York State Public Library Construction Grant sponsored by the Finger Lakes Library System, and County maintenance funds, the second phase of Library renovations will include the construction of a digital learning lab, a teen center and additional public meeting space.

The entire project is scheduled to be complete later this spring.

For more information about the closure or upcoming renovations, contact Carrie Wheeler-Carmenatty at cwheeler@tcpl.org or (607) 275-1548.

If you have the WebEx extension installed so you can attend USAC or other webinars and meetings, you should update the extension ASAP due to vulnerabilities:

Cisco has closed a remote code execution vulnerability in its WebEx extension for Chrome, after Project Zero's Tavis Ormandy alerted the networking giant to the issue on Saturday.

According to Ormandy, the extension worked on any URL that matched against a magic pattern, and since it could be used in a non-visible iframe, the user need not be aware the extension was engaged.

"The extension uses nativeMessaging, so this magic string is enough for any website to execute arbitrary code (!!)," the security researcher wrote in the Project Zero issue tracker.

After noticing Cisco shipped a copy of Microsoft's C runtime, Ormandy was able to make system calls and run remote code.

In response, Ormandy said Cisco initially blocked new installations of the extension, before limiting the pattern matching to webex.com domain.

"This means that if a site is not *.webex.com or *.webex.com.cn, then the user must click OK for code execution to happen," Ormandy said.

Summer Reading Registration Software Update

Wandoo Reader trials can be requested starting now, and the trial period will end on March 31, 2017.

The state will be updating the online registration page for Wandoo Reader on the Summer Reading at New York Libraries site next week.

Here are the basics from Evanced:

Wandoo Reader Trial Site
1. A library can run Wandoo Reader OR Classic Summer Reader, but cannot run both.
2. A library can choose to have a test site of Wandoo Reader, but that trial period ends March 31, 2017
3. A library can request a Wandoo Reader trial/test site here: https://evanced.typeform.com/to/O75CAg
4. If a library has never had Classic Summer Reader site, they can request a new Wandoo Reader “live” site at the link above as well (just choose the appropriate option).

Standards for Inserting Information in the Volume Field of a Multi-Part Set:

The following examples will help to define and clarify the standardizations that should be used when entering information in the volume field of a multi-part set.

A multi-part set is defined as any item that includes multiple parts and is packaged as such. The number of discs in each case determines what information goes in the volume field. For example:

For these four discs packaged all together in one case the volume field should contain the following information:

d. 1-4

Note: there is a space between the period and the first number. If the space is left out or additional spaces are added it won’t match during the holds processing.

If these four discs are packaged in two cases the volume fields should contain the following information:

d. 1-2
d. 3-4

If these four discs are packaged separately in individual cases the volume fields should contain the following information:

d. 1
d. 2
d. 3
d. 4

Copy information; i.e. c. 1 and/or c. 2 should ONLY be entered into the COPY field.

Please follow the above standardized format for all multi-set items.

If you receive any item that doesn’t fit this standard, please contact Deb or Rex.

Question of the Week

LAST WEEK’S QUESTION OF THE WEEK:

Who was the first president to take the inaugural oath on the west front of the Capitol? What did he say about the view from the podium?

Ronald Reagan was the first president to take the inaugural oath on the west front of the Capitol. In his first inaugural address, he referred to the view from the podium as: "...a magnificent vista, opening up on this city's special beauty and history. At the end of this open mall are those shrines to the giants on whose shoulders we stand."

THIS WEEK’S QUESTION OF THE WEEK:

Among other things, February is Time Management Month. What popular matrix is designed to help you manage your time better? How does it work best?

To answer a Question of the Week, please email Amanda (aschiavulli@fls.org) with “Question of the Week” in the Subject. Please include your source. Prizes are available for correct answers using one of our databases or a credible source
