

Are traditional printed books uncomfortable or difficult to use?

"Books are too heavy to hold"

"The print is too small"

"I have ADHD"

If you have trouble reading or handling a standard print book, you are not alone! Luckily, books come in many different formats for different needs. In particular, people of all ages with the following conditions frequently prefer books in an alternate format:

- Low vision
- Blindness
- Multiple Sclerosis
- Arthritis
- Physical disability
- Lack of muscle coordination or prolonged weakness
- Dyslexia
- ADD/ADHD

Additional Options for Finding Accessible Media

Open Library: 1 million+ books in accessible "DAISY" format are available for people with print disabilities to download.

Visit www.openlibrary.org

Tiflolibros: A free digital library of Spanish materials for people who cannot use print materials.

Visit www.tiflolibros.com.ar

The Described and Captioned Media Program: This program loans captioned and described K-12 educational media to people who are visually impaired or deaf. Members can play videos online or request DVDs by mail.

Visit www.dcmp.org

or call 800-237-6213(voice)

800-237-6819(tty)

For additional information and helpful links, visit:

www.flls.org/outreach/accessibility

We serve Cayuga, Cortland, Seneca, Tioga and Tompkins counties in New York State.

ACCESSIBILITY RESOURCES:

Reading is for Everyone!

Find the format that fits your needs!

1300 Dryden Road
Ithaca, NY 14850

www.flls.org/outreach/accessibility

Materials in the Library

FLLS member libraries offer several accessible book formats that you can find on the shelf or request from another library:

1. Large Print Books:

Books printed in 14pt or larger type. Over 15,000 titles available.

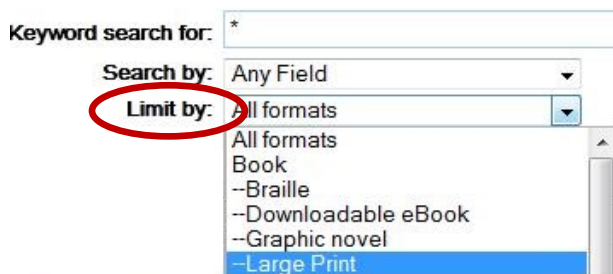

2. Audiobooks on CD:

Recorded books on compact discs. Over 9,000 titles available.

3. Playaway Audiobooks:

Handheld, all-in-one audiobooks. Just plug in your headphones and press play (very easy to use, even for people who are blind).

Browse items at catalog.flls.org by limiting the item type:

Last updated 9/2016

eContent

eBooks are a great option for many people who simply need an adjustable type size or a lighter item to hold. You can read eBooks on an eReader device or a computer.

eAudiobooks are also available to use with a computer or mp3 player. To download files, visit flls.lib.overdrive.com

Need help downloading? Contact your local library or visit help.overdrive.com eMagazines are also available through Zinio! Visit www.rbdigital.com/fingerlakesny

Fully-Accessible eBooks

The LEAP Program gives qualified patrons free access to the Bookshare collection, which provides books in fully-accessible DAISY format. www.bookshare.org/cms

Talking Book and Braille Library (TBBL)

Talking Book and Braille Library lends audiobooks for free to people who have difficulty using printed materials due to medical reasons. The audiobook cartridges are sent through the mail from the New York State Library in Albany. Shipping is always free both ways!

Audiobook titles can also be downloaded instantly from their online library, Braille and Audio Reading Download (BARD). TBBL provides a free player to each patron and you can transfer electronic BARD files to variety of devices. Braille items are also available by mail.

To sign up, FLLS can provide an application and player locally, or you can contact TBBL directly:
FLLS: (800) 909-3557, x236 or (607) 319-5613
TBBL: (800) 342-3688
www.nysl.nysed.gov/tbbl/

