Staff Out of the Office:

- Deb: Returns October 6.
- Eric: Oct 5-7.

From the Director:

On Thursday, September 29 and Friday, September 30, I will be in Albany attending HATS training. HATS stands for "Helping All Trustees Succeed" and is being introduced to the public library system directors of NY as an alternative trustee education style. Public library systems throughout the State offer trustee training in a variety of ways – from one-on-one training, to speaking at Board meetings, to full-day trustee education workshops. With the HATS training modules, public library system directors will have new tools to offer their trustees in their systems.

On Thursday we will take part in an interactive workshop about connecting and engaging with audiences that will teach us techniques to grab and hold an audience's attention. In the afternoon we will be having a group discussion about our current trustee training practices and discussing what works and what doesn't work. On Friday we are going to be introduced to the HATS modules, how they can be used, and what is included in the modules. We will then spend the afternoon designing a training event with exercises, stories, and handouts based on our training experiences.

I look forward to reporting back to you next week about the conference. Library trustees play a vital and special role in our libraries and providing them with the best guidance is something we take very seriously. We are excited in learning about these new training modules and bringing more trustee training to you next year.

Sarah

Reminders:

Explore NY Reading Lists

The New York State Library is pleased to continue partnering with NYLA/YSS and NYLA/SSL to provide the Explore New York recreational reading lists as part of Summer Reading at New York Libraries. We are requesting your input to help prepare the four reading lists for the upcoming 2017 Summer Reading season. The Summer Reading at New York Libraries slogan for 2017 will be "Build a Better World." The 2016 lists, found on <http://www.nysl.nysed.gov/libdev/summer/explore.htm> will be updated and revised in all areas. Keeping the New York State Learning Standards in mind, we would like to equalize the balance of recreational nonfiction and fiction titles. If you are interested in lending your expertise to the selection of books related to the history, culture, and diversity of New York State, please contact Chelsea Wallace at Chelsea.Wallace@nysed.gov by October 7, 2016.

Call for Research Participants!

A group of researchers is looking for participants interested in being interviewed about how gender (and other identity) performances impact our LIS work. This survey is intended to identify people interested in participating in in-depth, one-on-one interviews exploring issues of gender identity and performances in the library workplace. Each interview will last 30-60 minutes and will be conducted by phone. This survey is completely voluntary. All responses will be kept confidential, with only the 3 members of the research team having access to responses. Link to Survey: <https://goo.gl/forms/kNOpAh9WaZXC7DJl3>

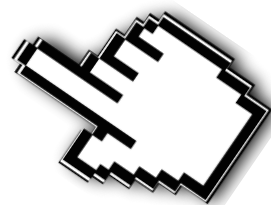

Scam of the Week

"A new Phishing attack is using a very realistic-looking Apple App Store message to trick you into trying to prevent getting charged for something you did not buy. This attack may make it through all the spam filters into your inbox so you need to be alert for this scam."

This phishing attack tries to make you fill out a page with your full address and credit card information so that you "will not get charged". If you or a family member would fall for this trick though, it is highly likely that your credit card would get fraudulently charged quickly.

Remember to never click on links in emails to go to a vendor's website. Always use your browser and either type in the address of the company or use a bookmark you have set yourself earlier. And while we are at it, never just open an email attachment you did not ask for. Let's stay safe out there and Think Before You Click!"

YA Book of the Week:

Eureka!: 50 Scientists Who Shaped Human History* by John Grant

Galileo, Einstein, Curie, Darwin, Hawking — we know the names, but how much do we really know about these people? Galileo gained notoriety over his battle with the Vatican, but did you know that this “father of modern science” was also an accomplished lute player? And Darwin of course discovered the principle by which new species are formed, but his bold curiosity extended to the dinner table as well. (And how many people can say they’ve eaten an owl!) In Eureka! John Grant — author of Debunk It!, Discarded Science, Spooky Science and many others — offers fifty vivid portraits of groundbreaking scientists. From lutes and owls to astronomy and evolution, Eureka! explains how these scientific geniuses have shaped our understanding — and how they spent their free time as well.
