Construction Grants Update

We are pleased to announce that FLLS has been awarded a total of $653,181 in Construction Grant Funding for the 2018-2019 grant cycle. If you are interested in applying for a Construction Grant this cycle, or if you have any questions about applying for a Construction Grant please contact Kristi Downham at kdownham@flls.org or 607-273-4074 ext. 228.

lynda.com is available to all member library staff in the FLLS area for free. View all the courses and to reserve your 'seat' – contact Jessica Brooks at (jphilippe@scrlc.org). Please include your phone number and library's name. You can take as many courses as you like during your two-week access.

From the Director

On Saturday, June 3rd, I attended the grand opening and ribbon cutting of the new Elizabeth Garnsey Delavan Library in Lodi. Over 100 community members, trustees (including members of the FLLS Board of Trustees, Ovid and Seneca Falls libraries), and elected officials welcomed a move that was ten years in the making. Former director Mary-Catherine French and Board President Karel Titus started the process of finding a new library building in 2007. Last May they broke ground on their new site and started the process of physically building the library. This May 13, numerous trustees, community members, and I helped move the materials from the old library around the corner to the new library. The grand opening on June 3 was a perfect end to many years of hard work and dedication from the board and library directors.

I explained to the crowd during my remarks at the grand opening how rare it is for a library to move. In the past 18 years I've worked in this community, this is only the second library I've worked with to move a building. The new library in Lodi now has a warm and welcoming area for children, and reading therapy dog Miss Martha was there during the grand opening to welcome children. The library has a community room space and room for an outdoor programming area.

Image from: http://www.ithaca.com/lodi-celebrates-new-library/article_c2210d6e-4b9e-11e7-abad-d324ceedd6f3.html

One of the highlights from the grand opening was hearing from Alta Boyer. Alta is 102 years old and gave a fascinating talk on the history of the library over the past 100 years in Lodi. I learned that Lodi originally lost their reading room in the 1910s due to an arsonist, but that the community rallied to rebuild their small reading room and collection. Alta, who is also a librarian who ran three libraries at the Willard Psychiatric Center, spoke how collection development changed over the years, the introduction of computers and the impact of technology over the years, and how the library board came to the decision to seek a new building.

Congratulations to library director Amy May, the whole Board of Trustees, but especially Karel Titus and Mary-Catherine French, for all of their hard work providing their community with such a beautiful new library. This year's FLLS Annual Meeting (Friday, October 13) will be held in Seneca County, with an opportunity for you to visit the Elizabeth Garnsey Delavan Library and tour their new building. I hope you can join us.

Measures that Matter Part Two: Detailing the Data-based Story of Public Libraries

Tuesday, June 13, 2017 @ 3:00 pm

In the United States, there are a number of national surveys of public libraries and their patrons. While all of these efforts help us tell a data-based story of public libraries, they differ in terms of their samples, what types of data they collect, and how their data are collected, stored, and accessed.

How to Craft a Proposal to a Foundation

Thursday, July 20, 2017 @ 2pm

Proposal writing is the skill most sought after by savvy nonprofit staff members. On the one hand, writing a grant proposal is quite simple and follows a basic formula. However, submitting a proposal may be your only chance to put the case for funding your organization in front of a foundation, so you want to be sure to do it right.

Coding for librarians : learning by example by Andromeda Yelton

Learning even the rudiments of how to code can increase productivity and effectiveness for librarians and their organizations, and getting started is easier than you might think. The result of interviews with more than 50 librarians, this issue of Library Technology Reports describes and links to dozens of short programs, most with less than 100 lines of code, that are in place and solving problems in libraries today. For example, Becky Yoose eliminated several steps in automating a purchase process triggered by patron-driven acquisition, measurably saving catalogers' time. Yelton also addresses organizational issues such as gaining buy-in from administrators, collaborating with nontechnical staff, and overcoming institutional barriers.

Storytime Rhyme of the Week

I Eat My Peas With Honey

I eat my peas with honey;
I've done it all my life.
It makes the peas taste funny,
But it keeps them on the knife.

One for me and one for you.
If there's one left what will we do?
Take up a knife and cut it in two,
Now one's for me and one's for you.

YA Book of the Week:

Real Friends* by Shannon Hale and LeUyen Pham

“Fresh and funny.” —New York Times Book Review

“This tender, perceptive graphic memoir is bound to resonate with most readers, especially fans of Raina Telgemeier and kids struggling with the often turbulent waters of friendships and cliques.” —School Library Journal, starred review

“A wonderfully observed portrait of finding one’s place in your world.”

—Publishers Weekly, starred review

“Readers will appreciate Shannon’s fantastic imagination that lightens her tough journey toward courage and self-acceptance.” —Kirkus Reviews

“Hand this book to fans of Raina Telgemeier’s and Cece Bell’s graphic memoirs.” —Horn Book

Shannon and Adrienne have been best friends ever since they were little. But one day, Adrienne starts hanging out with Jen, the most popular girl in class and the leader of a circle of friends called The Group. Everyone in The Group wants to be Jen’s #1, and some girls would do anything to stay on top . . . even if it means bullying others. Now every day is like a roller coaster for Shannon. Will she and Adrienne stay friends? Can she stand up for herself? And is she in The Group—or out?

Scam of the Week

Scam of the Week: Bogus email from Amazon

If you shop online, like most consumers do, this Scam of the Week is for you.

We all know that you can find great bargains online. Many of us shop at Amazon for the price and the convenience of having it shipped to our front door in 2 days.

Watch out for emails purported to be from Amazon about a cancelled order.

The email reads your order has been successfully canceled. Whatever you do -- don't click on that link.

Crooks likely want to install malware on your computer or phone. They want to trick you to click on a look-alike or fake website. Con artists hope you'll take the bait. You think you're correcting your order, but swindlers just snagged your credit card info.

Another red flag -- the bogus email lists items that you probably did not purchase.

Make sure your computer and phone have updated protection software.

"There will be people who click on that who don't have the protection I do. They will get bit!"

If you get this email ... delete it.

Don't click on the link.

If you want to see if there's a problem, always logon to the Amazon website and track your order.

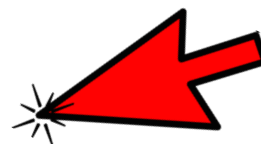

You're encouraged to report these bogus emails to Amazon.

This is another good reminder to always use a credit card for online shopping. Overall, credit cards offer better ID protections than debit cards.

Let's stay safe out there.
